Great God, we sing that mighty hand

Wareham

Great God, we sing that mighty hand
by which supported still we stand;
the opening year your mercy shows;
that mercy crowns it till it close.

By day, by night, at home, abroad,
still are we guarded by our God;
with an incessant bounty fed,
with sure, unerring counsel led.

With grateful hearts the past we own;
the future, all to us unknown,
we to your guardian care commit,
and, peaceful, leave it at your feet.

In scenes exalted or depressed
you are our joy, and you our rest;
your goodness all our hopes shall raise,
adored through all our changing days.

LITANY OF THANKSGIVING

Avantika Hari
Class of 2002

You have called us into a great conversation, begun long before our voices were added, yet inviting our participation. For this rich legacy of inclusion and care, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have walked with us in our struggles and in our delights, joining us as our trusted companion in the pursuit of truth. For your abiding presence and steadfast love, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have touched us with those, who as partners in our work, join us in the greater pilgrimage of your way. For their steady support in our journey toward wholeness, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have blessed us with knowing, with the power to shape our worlds and ourselves.
For perception and choice, memory and hope, and all of our powers of shaping and doing, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have challenged us with life, with its ever increasing horizons of truth and responsibility.
For its unfolding depth and richness, we say:

Thanks be to God.

You have entrusted us with your creation and with its truths, leading us into greater insight and wisdom, increased responsibility and care. For this precious gift which binds us each to the other, we, therefore, say:

Thanks be to God.

LAURA WALTERS BASKETT UNIVERSITY CHAPLIN

Laura Walters Baskett, an ordained Presbyterian minister, is completing her fourth year as Stetson University's chaplain. A University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill graduate with a bachelor's degree in East Asian history, she holds a Doctor of Ministry degree from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Virginia.

Dr. Baskett was ordained in the Presbyterian Church (USA) in Little Rock, Arkansas, where she served as an associate pastor for three years before teaching English as a Second Language at the University of Arkansas-Little Rock. She and her husband, Tom, then taught English in Shanghai for a year through the National Council of Churches and the Amity Foundation of China. Returning to Arkansas, she received two years of training in clinical pastoral education at the University Hospital of Little Rock, and spent two additional years working as a hospital chaplain.

In 1992, Dr. Baskett accepted a position as associate chaplain, and, later, as director of church relations at the University of Tulsa, where she served until coming to Stetson in July 1998. An active member of the Central Florida Presbytery, and its Compassion Ministries Committee, Dr. Baskett is also the President-Elect of the National Association of College and University Chaplains, and is a member of the National Campus Ministers Association. In addition, she serves on the Board of West Volusia Habitat For Humanity.

As University Chaplain at Stetson, she works closely with student religious life organizations and with the Trustee Religious Life Council, and is a member of the University's Values Council and its Religious and Spiritual Life Task Force. She provides for and supports the ongoing articulation of the life of faith on campus, sponsors campus programming and worship, provides counseling and pastoral care, and assists in nurturing a caring and respectful environment for religious life on campus.

LITANY FOR COMMUNITY

Leonard L. Nance
Associate Professor of Sociology and Anthropology
Associate Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Leader: Stetson University students, faculty, administrative and support staff, families, and friends,

We come together to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to each other and to Stetson University, and to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to be a loving and inclusive community.

We celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to excellence in education as learners and teachers, and to our religious heritage, which inspires us to center our lives on the quest for meaning and truth.

We celebrate and reaffirm also our commitment to integrate education and action, scholarship and social responsibility, for the purpose of promoting justice on our campus, in our nation, and throughout the world.

People: As a community, we commit to support each other in all that we do, to pursue knowledge and truth in all areas of life, and to use knowledge and truth to transform life for the welfare of all.

Leader: We come together also to celebrate and reaffirm the fundamental values and beliefs of our community, the values and beliefs that serve as the foundation stones of Stetson University.

People: As a community, we commit to support each other and to embrace the common beliefs which bind us together. We affirm our beliefs in:

- the dignity, worth, and equality of all persons,
- the importance of community in human life,
- the inherent strength and value of diversity in any community of active learners,
- the value of diverse opinions and ideas, even when different from our own, and
- the mandate for ethical decision-making and social responsibility as essential components in community.

Leader: We come together also to celebrate and reaffirm our commitment to be lifelong learners, to embrace learning as the core activity in becoming authentic human beings in an authentic community, and to give thanks for the liberal learning that helps us to free ourselves from preconceived notions and unexamined prejudices.

People: As a community and as a university, we accept with gladness the high responsibility of the exalted offices of teachers and learners. We commit ourselves individually, and as a group, to a lifelong learning process which discloses authentic truth and transforms all life anew. We commit also to honor the high calling of those who went before us at Stetson and to prepare the way for those who will come after in the pursuit of truth.

EDUCATIONAL MISSION

Our mission at Stetson University is to provide an excellent education in a creative community where learning and values meet, and to foster in students the qualities of mind and heart that will prepare them to reach their full potential as informed citizens of local communities and the world.

At Stetson, the art of teaching is practiced through programs solidly grounded in a tradition of liberal learning that stimulates critical thinking, imaginative inquiry, creative expression, and lively intellectual debate. The art of learning is enhanced through small interactive classes, close student-faculty alliances, and collaborative approaches that provide the foundation for rewarding careers and advanced study in selective graduate and professional programs. We embrace diverse methodologies to foster effective communication, information and technological literacy, and aesthetic appreciation. We encourage the development of informed convictions, independent judgment, and lifelong commitments to learning that are characteristic features of the enlightened citizen. In bringing together learning and values, the University encourages all of its members to demonstrate personal integrity; to develop an appreciation for the spiritual dimension of life; to embrace leadership in an increasingly complex, interdependent, and technological world; and to commit to active forms of social responsibility.

HERITAGE

Stetson University, Florida's first private university, was founded in 1883 by Henry A. DeLand, a New York philanthropist, as DeLand Academy. In 1887, the Legislature of the State of Florida enacted the Charter of DeLand University as an independent and autonomous institution of higher learning. The university name was changed in 1889 to honor John B. Stetson, the nationally known hat manufacturer who gave generously of his time and means to advance the quality and reputation of the institution, and who served, with Mr. DeLand and others, as a founding trustee of the university.

The first charter stated the object of the university should be "to promote the general interests of education, and to qualify its students to engage in the learned professions or other employments of society, and to discharge honorably and usefully the various duties of life."

Stetson's first president, Dr. John F. Forbes, clearly described the commitment to teaching which has been a hallmark of the university throughout its history:

"Buildings, libraries and apparatus are good and give added power, but the vital contact of students with a vigorous and stimulating mind and heart – this is the sine qua non of a successful education... The most important thing is to find men and women of large heart and mind, apt to teach and full of enthusiasm and stimulating power... to develop in the student the habit of independent judgment – of investigating statements and principles for oneself, and thus for oneself discover their truth or falsity."

MACE

The use of maces by corporations dates back to the 13th century. Maces were originally war instruments used for organizing mayhem and were carried by the sergeant-at-arms of the organization. In the European and in the older American universities it symbolizes the dignity and authority of the president and the corporation or the board of trustees.

Stetson's mace, designed by Episcopal Canon Edward Nason West of New York, was presented to former president J. Ollie Edmunds in 1956 at the May Commencement ceremony. Canon West, of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, is a leading authority on heraldry and the ancient symbolism on which much academic protocol is based.

The mace is described here by the artist:

"Stetson's mace is designed so that anyone could easily place the university's geographic location and chartering power. The palm buds from Florida's state seal form a base for the head of the mace. The legend around the bowl makes the particular institution's motive clear. The crenulations constitute what is known as a "canting device" since they are a play on the Latin word "stet" – of Stetson – meaning "may it stand." The anchor, heart and cross—repeated twice in ornamenting them—are taken from the seal of the City of DeLand. From the top of the mace, rises the shield of the university. The mace takes its basic shape from the mace of the Baptist Long Parliament, thus signifying the Baptist roots of the university."

The mace was made by Daniel Spencer, master gold and silversmith, of William Comyns & Sons, Ltd., London. The firm was established in 1645 and examples of their craft work can be found in St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey.

MEDALLION

The President's Medallion, worn at all official academic occasions, was cast for the inauguration of former Stetson president John E. Johns in 1969. The medallion, cast in silver, is the university seal embraced by a wreath of laurel.

THE STETSON COLORS

The Stetson colors, Green and White, were adopted about the time as the Seal. At the first commencement in 1893 the stage was decorated in Green and White. It is believed that the colors were chosen from the rich green of the orange trees and the pure white of the orange blossoms, a magnificent sight in the spring throughout Florida's great citrus belt. The color white represents purity and green signifies growth.

ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The traditional pageantry of an academic procession, such as the one which opens today's Commencement exercises, is one of the impressive spectacles of our time. Its significance is attested by the array of handsome gowns and vividly colored hoods worn by members of the Board of Trustees, the Faculty, and other officers of the University. These display the symbols of scholarly attainment.

The earliest illustrations of gowns worn at Oxford University in England somewhat resemble cassoaks worn by English teachers who found good use for the hood, or cowl, as protection against weather. The American system of academic heraldry indicates the level of a degree, the field of study in which it was earned, and the institution by which it was granted.

The American mortarboard, derived from the soft Oxford cap, is black. Its tassel, for holders of the bachelor's and master's degrees, is usually black, although gold tassels may be worn by holders of doctoral degrees and heads of institutions. The tassel is worn on the right side of the cap by undergraduates, on the left by holders of bachelor's and higher degrees.

It is the hood which provides academic regalia its color and offers the most information about its wearer. The silk lining of the hood bears the color, or colors, of the degree-granting college or university; its velvet facing reveals the color assigned to each area of study. The doctor's gown may bear velvet trimming on the front and sleeves—such as dark blue for Doctors of Philosophy (Ph.D.). A few institutions, mostly overseas but some in this country, authorize the wearing of colored robes, departing from the traditional black and brightly displaying the official colors of the university.

THE UNIVERSITY SEAL

The circular seal of Stetson University was first adopted between 1889 and 1891, about the time the name of the institution was changed from DeLand College to John B. Stetson University. It first appeared on a university catalogue in 1891. The drawing was by an artist-in-residence and approved by President Forbes, Henry DeLand and John B. Stetson, as well as by the Board of Trustees. The Latin motto, "Pro Deo et Veritate," is translated "For God and Truth." The Lamp, signifying the Light of Truth, rests on the Book of Wisdom.

The seal has been altered slightly several times in the course of Stetson's history. The current version reflects the university's new charter, dated 1995, officially changing the university's name from John B. Stetson University to Stetson University, while maintaining its most prominent and traditional elements: The Motto, the Lamp and the Book of Wisdom.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER E. CLAY SHAW, JR. DOCTOR OF LAWS

A native Floridian, U.S. Rep. E. Clay Shaw, Jr., earned both an undergraduate degree and a law degree from Stetson University, and has served his South Florida district in the House of Representatives for more than 20 years.

Born in Miami, he graduated from Miami Edison High School and entered Stetson University to study business administration. At Stetson, he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity and Beta Alpha Sigma, and served as yearbook photographer. He received a Stetson business degree in 1961, and moved to the University of Alabama, earning a master's degree in business administration in 1963. Deciding to study law, he returned to Florida and earned his law degree from the Stetson University College of Law in 1966.

Settling in Fort Lauderdale, he served as assistant city attorney, chief city prosecutor, and associate municipal judge. He served on the Fort Lauderdale City Commission from 1971 to 1973, as vice mayor from 1973 to 1975, and as mayor from 1975 to 1980.

First elected to the U.S. House of Representatives in 1980, Shaw has chaired the Florida delegation since 1996. During his years in the House he has served on its Judiciary, Public Works and Transportation, and Merchant Marine and Fisheries committees, as well as the Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control.

Named to the House Ways and Means Committee in 1988, he chaired its Human Resources Subcommittee from 1995 to 1998, responsible for legislation reforming welfare, promoting adoption, and improving housing for older Americans. He now heads its Social Security Subcommittee and serves on its Trade Subcommittee. As chair of the Social Security Subcommittee, he is spearheading efforts to save Social Security. He also sponsored the legislation that eliminated the Social Security retirement earnings penalty that cost working seniors $1 in benefits for every $3 earned over the limit.

Former president of the National Conference of Republican Mayors, he also served on the advisory board and executive committee of the Conference of Mayors. He was the U.S. Special Ambassador to Papua New Guinea under President Gerald Ford.

A member of the Board of Overseers of the Stetson University College of Law, Shaw received the Distinguished Alumni Award from the Stetson University Alumni Association in 1984.

He and his wife, Emilie Costar Shaw, also a Florida native and a 1961 graduate of Stetson University, have four children and 13 grandchildren. Their daughter, Mimi Shaw Carter of DeLand, is a 1984 Stetson University graduate.

DALE F. SPRANKLE DOCTOR OF ARTS

Born in East Tennessee, Dale F. Sprankle moved to Florida as a boy and attended high school in South Florida. He went north to college, graduating Phi Beta Kappa from Princeton University in 1953 with a bachelor's degree in architecture, and going on to earn a master's degree in fine arts from Princeton in 1955.

He served in the U.S. Navy from 1955 to 1958, working with Aerojet General on the Polaris program. After an architectural apprenticeship in San Francisco, he joined a nationally recognized architectural firm with expertise in college and university work in 1962, and moved to New York City to open its office for East Coast work. In 1965 he returned to the corporate office in California to become executive vice president, then president and director of the firm, which by the late 1970s was known as Sprankle, Lynd and Sprague.

Personally responsible for developing campus master plans for 21 institutions of higher education, and sometimes for designing entirely new campuses, Sprankle worked all over the country in higher education – from California to Florida to Massachusetts to the U.S. Virgin Islands, and points in between. He also served as on-going master plan architect for Millikin University, Decatur, Ill., for many years; for Santa Clara University, Santa Clara, Calif., for more than a decade; and for Stetson University for nearly two decades. He has designed classrooms, residence halls, libraries, computer facilities, performing arts centers, laboratories, student unions – the whole range of campus facilities – always with attention to how they will be used and how they will fit into the larger picture.

In 1976, he went to Australia to form an ongoing joint venture with a Melbourne architectural firm, beginning two decades of trans-Pacific flights. The association kept him busy with the design for several major projects, including the Hi-Rise Office Towers and Festival Retail in the heart of Melbourne, which received the 1994 BOMA (Building Owners and Managers Association) Award for Excellence in Urban Planning. In addition, he was involved in designing the International Hotel and Casino in Melbourne, a large urban redevelopment project on the Yarra River facing the city skyline. In Queensland, he was the principal in charge of design for the Hotel Conrad and Jupiters Casino on the Gold Coast; and for the Treasury, a five-star hotel and casino in Brisbane, involving the preservation and retrofit of two of Australia's most highly regarded heritage buildings. He also led an international team that won a design competition for the Diplomatic Club in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

Now retired, he still serves as a consultant, notably to Stetson University and to Jupiters Limited in Australia, while still finding time for his avocations of reading history and enjoying opera. He and his wife of 46 years, Carolyn Sprankle, have two children and two grandchildren.

HONORS RECOGNITIONS

Stetson University applauds its May 2002 graduates who have achieved high honors in completing their degrees.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Stetson was the first private university in Florida to be honored with a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honorary society. Since 1776, Phi Beta Kappa has promoted "high scholarship, liberal culture, and good character" among undergraduates. Election to Phi Beta Kappa is Stetson's highest recognition of excellence in the study of the liberal arts and sciences.

Louis Barbieri	David Hamrick	Richard Renfro
Kelly Collier	Kathryn Harrigan	Paul Vogel
Susan Dale	Matthew Ketchum	Krista Wells
Sara Dodson	Alison Northup	Katheryn Wright
Melissa Edwards	Jessica Pease

PI KAPPA LAMBDA

Pi Kappa Lambda is a national music honor society which recognizes those junior and senior students who have demonstrated superior achievement in their programs of study. Seniors in the upper 20% of the class and juniors in the upper 10% of the class are eligible for membership.

Rebecca Binswanger	Eric Jones	Shanti Simon
Bradley Boone	Anna Sagdeeva	Erin Toelcke
Jessica Bryant	Amanda Sali

BETA GAMMA SIGMA

Beta Gamma Sigma is the international honor society providing the highest academic recognition available for an undergraduate or graduate business student. Beta Gamma Sigma recognizes outstanding academic achievements of students enrolled in collegiate business and management programs accredited by AACSB International. To be eligible for membership, a student must rank in the upper 7 percent of the junior class, upper 10 percent of the senior class, or upper 20 percent of the graduating master's class.

Bachelors of Business Administration:

Zachary Cheek	Chrystyna Doege	Keith Holecek
Rebecca Cofer	Erik Earp	Anne Nashed

Masters of Business Administration and Masters of Accountancy:

Jason Archambault	Earle Hunt	David Roemer
Beth Fitzpatrick	Robert Morton

HONORS PROGRAM

Now in its forty-third year, the Honors Program at Stetson University is one of the oldest in the nation. Its mission is to provide "enriched and intellectually stimulating learning experiences for inquisitive and motivated students." To graduate "In Honors," a student must complete a rigorous sequence of courses in general education, fulfill all requirements for a major (and often a second major or minors), write a personal credo, pass a comprehensive oral examination, and maintain a minimum overall grade point average of 3.0. The Honors Program also has a strong tradition of providing leaders to student government, campus media, and service organizations.

Dana Bielinski	David Falls	Matthew Ketchum
Michael Chase	Christopher Girata	Sarah Lachman
Brandon Christian	Kathryn Harrigan	Jason Lambert
Elizabeth Dehnart	Keith Holecek	Jessica Pease
Sara Dodson	Kristina Jones	Maryalice Phillips

GRADUATION PLEDGE Initiated by the Class of 2002 and the Student Government Association Stetson University

This voluntary commitment is part of a national movement in which college graduates sign a pledge to "lead responsible lives." Seniors who have signed the Stetson University pledge wear green and gold ribbons at Commencement to indicate their intention to live thoughtfully and responsibly, drawing on values they have developed here as they move forward in life and work:

I acknowledge the impact of my decisions on others, on society, and on the environment. As I graduate from Stetson University and begin advanced study or my life's work, I pledge to consider the social, spiritual, and environmental consequences of my actions. As I make daily choices, I will do my best to enhance the lives of others, to deepen my understanding of the spiritual dimension of human life, and to demonstrate respect for the natural world.
